

Contributors

Rachelle Sender Beauchamp, Ph.D., is Co-Director of the Women Inventors Project in Waterloo, Ontario. She has taught and done research in molecular biology and occupational health and is past President of the Canadian Association for Women in Science.

Ronald J. Burke is Professor of Organizational Behaviour/Industrial Relations in the Faculty of Administrative Studies at York University.

Juane N. Clarke holds a Ph.D. and is the Chairperson of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Wilfrid Laurier University.

Melissa Clark-Jones is a Professor of Sociology at Bishop's University, pursuing research and teaching in popular culture, women's studies and industrial sociology. She received her Ph.D. from McMaster.

Patricia Coyne is an Assistant Professor of Classics at Bishop's University. Her research interests are in the areas of women's studies, popular culture and Roman history. She has a Ph.D. in Roman Studies from McMaster University.

Helene Cummins is a Ph.D. student in Sociology at the University of Waterloo. Her current research focuses on the stress on and the community coping abilities of Ontario tobacco farmers and their families.

Anne Innis Dagg is the Academic Director of the Independent Studies Program at the University of Waterloo.

Josette Déléas-Matthews is an Associate Professor in the Modern Languages Department at Mount Saint Vincent University, where she teaches French Language, Literature and Film. She has published various articles in these fields and is currently working on a book on Acadian Cinema.

Michael Foley is an Associate Professor of English at the University of Prince Edward Island. He has published several articles on Middle English and dystopian literature.

Roberta Hamilton is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario.

Carol L. Hill is Dean of Student Affairs at Mount Saint Vincent University and is a Registered Psychologist. She maintains her own counselling service and oversees the Mount's Counselling and Health Departments, among others.

Susan-Judith Hoffmann is a Ph.D. student of philosophy at the University of Guelph.

Cornelia C. Hornosty is a poet living in Dundas, Ontario. She holds a M.A. in French literature from McMaster University and has published poetry in a variety of publications, including Canadian Forum, Poetry Canada Review, Canadian Literature and Atlantis.

Leslie Howsam is doing postdoctoral research at the University of Toronto. Her interests include the publishing history of the nineteenth-century British and Foreign Bible Society.

Marlene Mackie is a Professor of Sociology at the University of Calgary. Her publications include Exploring Gender Relations and Constructing Women and Men: Gender Socialization.

Susan A. McDaniel, Ph.D., is Professor of Sociology at the University of Alberta. She is the author of two books, a third in press, and more than sixty scholarly articles. She was at the University of Waterloo from 1976 to 1989.

Sheva Medjuck is an Associate Professor of Sociology and Women's Studies at Mount Saint Vincent University. Her major research areas include women and development, and gender and ethnicity.

Angela Miles works in the Department of Adult Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. The main focus of her work has been "the analysis of the theory and practice of feminism in its fullest form."

Emily Nett is a recently retired Professor of Sociology, and is currently Senior Researcher in the Centre on Aging at the University of Manitoba. She has edited a special issue of RFR/DRF on women as elders, and is presently writing a monograph based on an historical study of representations of midlife and old age in Chatelaine Magazine fiction.

C.J. Neville is an Assistant Professor (Research) in the Department of History at Dalhousie University. Her area of interest is European history, particularly the medieval period.

J.W. Osborne is a Professor in the Department of Educational Psychology at the University of Alberta.

Gesche Peters is currently completing her MA in feminist history at Concordia University, where she will enter the Ph.D. programme in the fall of 1990.

Deborah C. Poff is an Associate Professor of Women's Studies at Mount Saint Vincent University and is the director of the Institute for the Study of Women. She is also the co-editor of Atlantis and the editor of the Journal of Business Ethics.

Chitra Pershad Reddin is an Assistant Professor of Public Relations at Mount Saint Vincent University.

Laura M. Robinson is a graduate student and seminar leader with the English Department at the University of Manitoba.

Margaret Rodgers is an artist living in Oshawa, Ontario. She is working on a masters program in Canadian Heritage and Development Studies at the Frost Centre, Trent University.

Catherine Rubinger is an Associate Professor of French at Mount Saint Vincent University. She has published articles on French Canadian literature, women in New France and various themes of the French 18th-Century novel with particular applications to women.

Anne Sisson Runyan is Assistant Professor and Chair of the Department of Political Studies at the Potsdam College of the State University of New York, where she teaches courses in international relations and women and politics, and is organizing a gender studies minor.

Aysan Sev'er is an Assistant Professor in the Sociology Department at the Scarborough Campus of the University of Toronto. Her interests are in the areas of gender relations and interpersonal influence in small groups.

Jill Solnicki is a poet and author living in Toronto. She will be publishing a volume of poetry entitled This Mortal Coil in the fall of 1990 at Penumbra Press.

Eleanor Ty holds a doctorate and works in the Department of English at McMaster University. Her interests include feminist literary theory.

Mariana Valverde teaches social theory and feminist issues in the Sociology Department at York University in Toronto.

Susan Zettell is a freelance writer who lives in Ottawa. She is completing a collection of linked short stories dealing with family relationships.