

Contributors

Beverly Rasporich is a member of the English Department at the University of Calgary in Alberta.

Jennifer Waelti-Walters teaches in the Department of French Language and Literature at the University of Victoria in British Columbia.

Joan McFarland is a member of the Department of Economics, St. Thomas University, Fredericton, New Brunswick.

Deborah Kaetz is Assistant Arts Editor of The Fourth Estate and lives in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Evelyn Garbary is Director of Drama at Acadia University and is Founder and Co-Director of Mermaid Theatre.

Edward Ryan, a member of the Ontario Bar, is a Special Lecturer in Jurisprudence and Family Law at the University of Toronto and is a Consultant in Family Law to the Law Reform Commission of Canada.

Susanne MacKay is an artist who lives and works in Wolfville, Nova Scotia.

Maureen Baker is an Assistant Professor of Sociology at Acadia University.

Helen Portebenko is a writer living in Vancouver.

Hilary Thompson is a writer and poet who teaches at Acadia University.

Barbara Roberts is a member of the History Department at Cariboo College, Kamloops, British Columbia.

Donna E. Smyth is a writer who teaches in the Department of English at Acadia University. She is also the Co-ordinating Editor of Atlantis.

Christene Fulton is a writer and student from Truro, Nova Scotia.

Jean Hillabold is a writer living in Regina.

Margaret Randall is author of Cuban Women Now and is presently living in Cuba.

Isolde Savage is an artist, living in Liverpool, Nova Scotia.