

Contributors

Ellen Antler is an Anthropology Student at the University of Connecticut and was a Predoctoral Fellow in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Anne Bawden is a student of Art History at the University of Manitoba.

Margaret Belcher teaches French at the University of Regina.

Suzann Buckley teaches History at the State University of New York, Plattsburgh.

William K. Greenaway is a member of the Sociology Department at the University of Winnipeg.

Dolores Gold teaches Psychology at Concordia University.

Jo-Anne Isaak is a Graduate Student in English at the University of Toronto.

Anne Martin Matthews is a Newfoundlander who is presently doing graduate work in Sociology at McMaster University.

Lorraine McMullen is in the English Department at the University of Ottawa.

Wendy Mitchinson is a member of the History Department, Mount Saint Vincent University.

Margaret Muir is a Student in Anthropology at Brown University and was a Predoctoral Fellow at the Institute for Social and Economic Research in Newfoundland.

Pierre Payer is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at Mount Saint Vincent University.

Ruth Pierson is a member of the History Department, Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Patricia Skidmore teaches History at Brescia College, London, Ontario.

Rebecca Smith teaches English at the University of Prince Edward island.

Susannah J. Wilson is a member of the Department of Sociology, Sir Wilfrid Laurier University.

Sarah Jackson, who has generously donated her work to ATLANTIS, is an artist living in Halifax. Copies of her xerography are available upon request.

Susanne MacKay is an artist living in Wolfville, Nova Scotia. Copies of her art work are available upon request