ATLANTIS is an interdisciplinary journal devoted to critical and creative writing in English or French on the topic of women. The Editorial Board welcomes manuscripts embodying all viewpoints on women's studies. Submissions should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope and should be no more than 10,000 words in length. Book and film reviews, photography and graphic work will also be considered for inclusion in ATLANTIS.

ATLANTIS est une revue interdisciplinaire consacrée à des études critiques et originales touchant la femme et rédigées en français ou en anglais. Le comité de rédaction invite ses collaborateurs éventuels à lui soumettre leurs articles, aussi variés soient-ils, reliés au but de la revue. Tout texte proposé doit comprendre au plus 10,000 mots et être accompagné d'une enveloppe affranchie, portant nom et adresse de son auteur. Critiques de livres et films, photographies et illustrations diverses peuvent faire partie de la Revue ATLANTIS.

Atlantis was an ancient kingdom, an island in the Atlantic, which disappeared during an earthquake. Fabulous stories are told about the beauty of the people who lived there and the kind of civilization they created. We take Atlantis as a symbol of the lost kingdom which women are striving to rediscover by discovering themselves.

L'Atlantide, royaume du temps jadis, disparut pendant un tremblement de terre. Cette île, perdue sous les ondes de l'Atlantique, était renommée dans les légendes pour la beauté de ses habitants et leur civilisation. Pour nous, l'Atlantide est un symbole de ce royaume perdu que les femmes essaient de retrouver, tout en retrouvant leur propre identité.

The Spring edition of ATLANTIS, 1977, includes a special conference issue in addition to our regular issue. The conference, held in Halifax in November, 1976, was an exciting indication of the range of research being done across Canada in the field of Women's Studies. Our special Guest Editor, Linda Christiansen-Ruffman, has selected a representative sample from among the more than fifty papers presented at the conference. By using ATLANTIS as a vehicle for this type of publication, we hope to provide some immediate response to the papers, beyond the range of the conference participants, and to stimulate further research and discussion in these areas.

The editors of ATLANTIS are also pleased to announce that we have received a grant from the Canada Council and are therefore able to plan for future issues. We trust that we shall continue to receive valuable support from our readers in the form of subscriptions and contributions so that ATLANTIS will continue to reflect the quality and vitality of the work in Women's Studies in Canada.
